New Delhi: The National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) on Saturday organised a painting competition on various themes for children in New Delhi in the run-up to its foundation day celebrations on October 12.

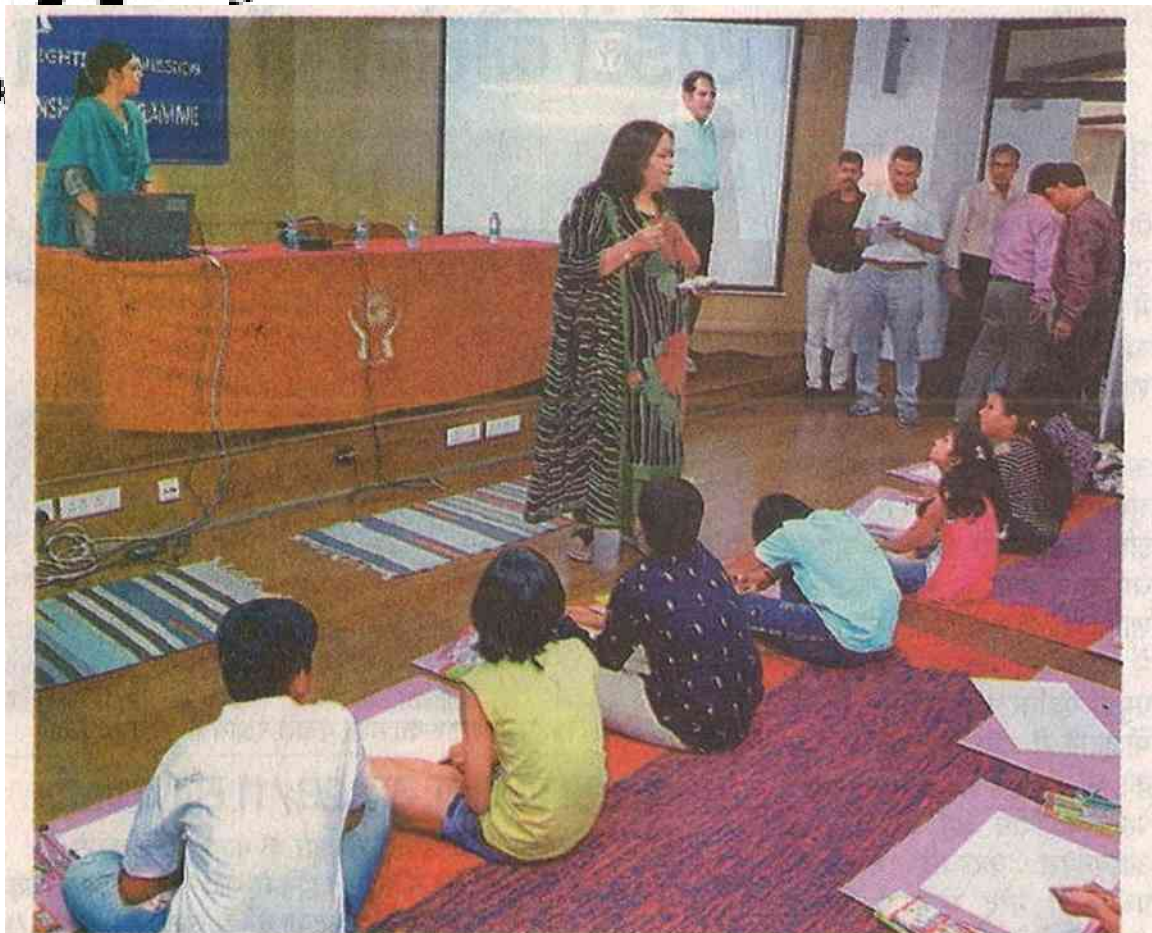

In all 108 children in three age categories from various educational institutions participated.

"The aim was to encourage children to express their idea of the world creatively with a rights perspective. The themes were on contemporary issues concerning humanity, which included, among others, 'Save Earth', 'Clean India/Healthy India', 'Women Empowerment' and 'Single-use Plastic Ban'," according to Jaimini Kumar Srivastava, deputy director, communications, of the NHRC.

Jyotika Kalra, NHRC member, Prabhat Kumar, director-general (investigation) and other senior officers and staff of the commission were present.

The themes for the first category (up to 8 years) were "My Home", "My Garden" or "any other topic of your choice". For the second category (9-13 years) the themes were "My School", "My Family" and "Jungle Scene". The themes for the third category (14-17 years) were "Save Earth", "Clean India/Healthy India", "Women Empowerment" and "Single-use Plastic Ban".
